

Why Physical Activity Should Be On Your Meeting Agenda

Including physical activity as a part of meetings, conferences, and classes makes a major difference for leaders and attendees alike. When physical activity is integrated into the training day, presenters and participants are able to stay energized and to be more productive. Here are three important reasons to plan for an active training day:

1. Meeting Smarter: Maximize brain power for learning.

Physical activity is as good for the brain as it is for the body. Adding a few activity breaks into a long training day helps participants stay focused and maximizes their opportunities to absorb the concepts you are teaching.

2. Blend Fun and Fitness: Showcase the benefits of physical activity.

A critical part of teaching healthy lifestyles is motivating people to get moving and keep moving. A few fun activities interspersed throughout a sedentary day can go a long way toward demonstrating the power and ease of enjoyable physical activity.

3. Lead by Example: Role model for lifelong healthy habits.

Learners of all ages are always watching to see if teachers are leading by example. What better way to actually model healthy habits than to enjoy some activity together! Participants will have fun and get tips for being active every day.

Trainer's Tip

Reinforce fitness messages with physical activity.

This project has been funded at least in part with Federal funds from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Service through an agreement with the Institute of Child Nutrition at The University of Mississippi. The contents of this publication do not necessarily reflect the views or policies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, nor does mention of trade names, commercial products, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. government.

The University of Mississippi is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA Employer.

In accordance with Federal law and U.S. Department of Agriculture policy, this institution is prohibited from discriminating on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age, or disability.

To file a complaint of discrimination, write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-9410 or call (202) 720-5964 (voice and TDD). USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer.

© 2017, Institute of Child Nutrition, The University of Mississippi, School of Applied Sciences

Except as provided below, you may freely use the text and information contained in this document for non-profit or educational use with no cost to the participant for the training providing the following credit is included. These materials may not be incorporated into other websites or textbooks and may not be sold.

The photographs and images in this document may be owned by third parties and used by The University of Mississippi under a licensing agreement. The University cannot, therefore, grant permission to use these images.

For more information, please contact helpdesk@theicn.org.

01/2017

